Conditions & Limitations

This material is copywritten by Doug Addison and Doug Addison retains full rights to this content and training curriculum.

As a trainer, you agree to ensure Doug Addison's name, copyright notice and the Restoring Your Financial Storehouses branding remains intact on the slide presentation and any advertising materials you may use.

As a trainer of the curriculum, you may edit the slide presentation to include your personal stories and the like. However, you may not make major content or theological changes to the material.

If you add some of your own content into the slide presentation, then kindly make a notation for your audience to be able to distinguish your original content from Doug's content. This ensures you receive proper credit for your content, and also ensures Doug is not credited with something he did not say.

When referring to the workshop title, always use the full official title of the workshop, as follows: "Doug Addison's Restoring Your Financial Storehouses" Should you choose to advertise your training event, please include your name as the trainer of the workshop while still maintaining Doug Addison's name as the author of the workshop content.

For example: "Doug Addison's Restoring Your Financial Storehouses workshop. Hosted by: XYZ Ministries with Trainer: John Smith."

You cannot reprint or use this information in written form without permission from Doug Addison and/or InLight Connection.

You do not have resell rights or private label rights to this content. (However, you may charge a registration fee for your workshop and/or training events.)

Please do not repost this material on the internet or give it away to others!
